CLINTON HOUSE MUSEUM AND CLINTON TOUR

THE HOUSE

At first glance, it might be hard to tell what an important place this small, unassuming house holds in history. Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the home looks much like the others in the neighborhood and consists of only one bedroom and 1,800 square feet. However, during the 1970s, it was a home for two people who would shape the future of the country and the world.

Bill Clinton and Hillary Rodham were married in the living room. It was the first home they shared and the only place they lived together before entering the public eye. The future U.S. president and future secretary of state would leave this house in 1976, only to move to the White House 17 years later.

See for yourself the house that served as the backdrop for that October day in 1975. Through photographs, historical documents and videos, you'll learn about a part of the Clintons' life that many have never discovered. A time that isn't about being president, but about being a future president.

TOUR THE FIRST LADIES GARDEN

Take a walk through the backyard where you'll find a variety of flowers, shrubs and trees associated with the first ladies of the United States. Favorites of Hillary Clinton, including tulips, peonies, hydrangeas and roses, are featured. Various wildflowers have been planted throughout in honor of Lady Bird Johnson, who started the country's highway beautification program. The garden changes seasonally.

RETURNING HOME

In August 2010, Bill Clinton visited the museum, his first time returning to the house since he and Hillary moved away in 1978. Formerly California Boulevard, the street on which the house sits was changed to Clinton Drive in honor of the president.

BEYOND THE HOUSE

(Numbers correspond to the map on the far right.)

Old Main 1

This historic building's front lawn was the site of an emotionally riveting presidential campaign stop for Bill on October 23, 1992. Advised that it would be a waste of time and that he should move on to the undecided states, Clinton insisted he visit Fayetteville. He spoke to an enormous crowd of friends and supporters, reminiscing about his days here.

Farmers' Market 2

Rub elbows with area farmers and artisans on Fayetteville's Downtown Square every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning from April through mid-November. Choose from the best of locally grown vegetables, fruits, plants, flowers and crafts.

Waterman Hall 3

Established in 1952, this hall is home to the U of A Law School where Clinton taught from 1973 to 1976. In 1973, Clinton recommended the hiring of Hillary Rodham, who joined the faculty in 1974.

Historical Marker 4

This marker, located in front of the School of Law on Maple, commemorates the Clintons' attendance in the mid-1970s. It is part of a series of markers dedicated throughout the campus in 1999 to commemorate significant events and people.

Senator J.W. Fulbright Sculpture 5

Senator Fulbright was a role model and eventual employer of Bill Clinton, best known for his expertise in foreign affairs. In 1993, Clinton presented him with the Presidential Medal of Freedom, just two years before his death. At the dedication of the statue in 2002, Clinton spoke about Fulbright's hiring of Clinton by saying, "Had I not received that fateful phone call in 1966, I never would have become president."

Pig Trail Scenic Byway

This 19-mile scenic byway in the beautiful Boston Mountains is a short drive packed with gorgeous scenery, twisting turns and choice outdoor recreation. In his autobiography, My Life, Clinton mentioned how this road was "such a beautiful drive." Take Highway 16 East from Fayetteville to Brashears and follow Highway 23.
